

Wednesday, December 13, 1961

ONE THAT DIDN'T GET AWAY

WHEREVER big-game fishermen foregather their conversation is replete with tales of "the one that got away." Here is a picture story of one that didn't escape . . . a 15lb. Kambesi landed by 13-year-old Stuart Halfyard, seen at left, of Mombasa Primary School. He was one of the participants in a children's fishing competition organised by the Mombasa Sea Angling Club.

Unfortunately, Stuart broke his rod while boating the fish and his entry could not be accepted.

Below, the prize winners — 17-year-old Henry Czynewski of the Prince of Wales School, who got a cup for his 16lb. Soz. Wahoo, and Jennifer Robertson, 11, who fished a 15lb. Soz. tunny and was awarded Hugh Copley's book "Game Fish in East Africa."

